

Rony Lec

After the end of Guatemala's civil war, Rony co-founded the Instituto Mesoamericano de Permacultura (IMAP), or Mesoamerican Permaculture Institute. He worked for the next 20 years as its Director.

Against a deeply fractured political background, growing food served as a way to engage small farmers in the regeneration of their land while keeping ancestral knowledge alive.

Rony is considered one of Latin America's foremost ecological agriculture teachers. He has taught Indigenous communities across the Americas and has trained upwards of 10,000 small farmers.

He now lives with his family outside Guelph, Ontario.

TALKS & WORKSHOPS

PERMACULTURE & AGRO-ECOLOGY

NATIVE SEEDS

INDIGENOUS WORLDVIEWS

MAYAN COSMOLOGY

TRADITIONAL LAND-BASED PRACTICES

SMALL FARMING

ECOSOL
Ecology & Solidarity Council

VIDEO APPEARANCES

IMAP

Tomorrow's Ancestors Speak (1)

Tomorrow's Ancestors Speak (2)

The Mayan Word

Ronaldo Lec

RECENT TALKS

Farming, Justice, and Indigenous Earth Care

Ignatius Jesuit Centre, Guelph (2019)

Seed Saving: How, When, Where

Continental Seed Freedom Summit, Guatemala (2018)

Mayan Worldview and Agriculture

American Indian Health Centre, Detroit (2018)

Sustainable Food Systems of Guatemala

McGill University, Montreal (2018)

Ecology & Solidarity Council

www.ecologyandsolidarity.org

info@ecologyandsolidarity.org

(519) 731-6634